PRESS RELEASE

TF1 GROUP ANNOUNCES AN AGREEMENT WITH PRIME VIDEO TO BROADCAST LIGUE 1 UBER EATS HIGHLIGHTS IN TELEFOOT TV SHOW

This agreement, which starts on October 24, will offer greater visibility to Ligue 1 Uber Eats to all football fans in France

Prime Video announced today an agreement with TF1 to broadcast Ligue 1 Uber Eats highlights Téléfoot, its flagship and iconic Sunday football show, images from the match week Ligue 1 Uber Eats as well as archive footage from matches of the 2021/2022 season. With this agreement, Prime Video, the "home of top French Club Football" and broadcaster of over 600 matches of Ligue 1 Uber Eats and Ligue 2 BKT since the beginning of the 2021-22 season will offer even more visibility to Ligue 1 Uber Eats and an easier access to matches images to all football fans across the country.

*"We're very excited about this agreement with TF1 and make Ligue 1 Uber Eats football even more visible to all football fans across the country, declared Alex Green, MD Prime Video Sport in Europe. "This collaboration is a great step forward for fans. Our goal was always to bring the best of Ligue 1 Uber Eats football to fans and Téléfoot is an iconic football TV show in France, it will help us deliver on that promise even more."*

*"We are very happy to be able to, once again, offer an exceptional exposure to the Ligue 1 Uber Eats championship by making all the highlights and analyses of the matches accessible to the largest audience in France. With the return of those images to the program, TELEFOOT also strengthens its position as the leading and unmissable soccer magazine," adds François Pellissier, Executive Vice President Business and Sports for TF1 Group.
