Two TF1 FILMS PRODUCTION films win awards
at the L'Alpe d'Huez Comedy film festival

TF1 Films Production is pleased to be the co-producer of two films that won awards at the closing ceremony of the 16th L'Alpe d'Huez Comedy Film festival on Saturday evening.

I Give it a Year, Dan Mazer's first film as director and starring Rose Byrne, Anna Faris, Rafe Spall and Simon Baker, won the Grand Prix du Festival prize.

La Cage Dorée ("The Golden Cage"), the first film directed by Ruben Alves, with Roland Giraud, Chantal Lauby, Rita Blanco, Joachim de Almeida, Barbara Cabrita and Lannick Gautry, won the Prix du Public prize.

Commenting, Benoît Louvet, Chairman of TF1 Films Production, and Nathalie Toulza-Madar, CEO, said: "TF1 Films Production backs some 20 feature films every year, including works by first-time directors. We are particularly happy and proud to have partnered I Give it a Year and La Cage Dorée, both of which harnessed the skills of exceptionally talented teams, as reflected in these initial awards. We hope that these two films will be seen by the widest audience possible on their upcoming cinema release".
